Hua Hin
THAILAND

Since The Southern Railroad was constructed to give people opportunities to travel overland all the way to the Malaysian border, the beach of Hua Hin has enjoyed a solid reputation as "the famous seaside resort of Siam" where visitors could enjoy swimming, fishing, and golfing on the country's first standard course (Hua Hin Royal Golf Course) during the weekends.

Hua Hin's rise came with the opening of the Railway Hotel (Hotel Sofitel Central), after the Southern line was completed. It was an elegant Victorian structure on the shore with vast rooms, private verandah, fancy fretwork decoration and wickerwork chairs in the lounge. Soon afterwards a first complex of bungalows (Central Hua Hin Village) was built together with a Victorian-style gazebo on a scenic group of rocks near Hua Hin Village, and this place, later, was selected as a venue in the film "The Devil's Paradise", as well as the Railway Hotel, which portrayed Phnom Penh's leading hotel in the hectic days just before that city's fall in the film "The Killing Fields".

Nowadays, among the development of the world, Hua Hin's pleasures are still placid, not all that different, indeed, from those enjoyed by the aristocratic visitors of its past. That's Hua Hin - the oldest beach resort of Siam with a sense of history and a peaceful but scenic atmosphere. That's beloved Hua Hin.

Leisure Route around Hua Hin

It's not a bad idea to start from historic place- Hua Hin Railway station, where you can touch a feeling of Hua Hin in 1920s, when most people arrived and left this beach resort by train. This is a nice place to take a picture for your memory about Hua Hin.

Walk straight to the east on Damneonkasem Rd., you'll see Pon Kingpatch (1st Thai boxing who won the World Boxing Champion) statue stands on the right side. Across the main Street-Petchkasem Rd., pass the Post office you will find many of nice restaurants in European style especially Italian. Go furthermore to very end of the road; you will enter another symbolic place of Hua Hin- Sofitel Central Hotel (1st hotel built in Hua Hin), where its landscape is unique by formed tree. Take some time relax at the Museum Café in the beautiful colonial architecture. (Suggest walking in from the side and outing at the main entrance.)

From the front of Sofitel Central's main entrance (Naresdamri Rd.), keep going on north. Hilton hotel seems to be a Landmark for Hua Hin already since more than 10 years ago (nice viewpoint on the 17th floor). Just follow the light, many kinds of restaurants, tailors, and souvenir shops along both side the road well describe why some people name this path "the Golden Mile". As you pass Hilton, small alley on the right will lead you to the terrace by the sea- another observation deck at the heart of Hua Hin.

All the way to the end, Fishing Pier is another spot that you could see Hua Hin in a wide skyline panorama. Coming in a right time, and you will see the nature sun beautifully set down behind the hill.

Back to Dechanuchit road, which leads you to the famous Hua Hin night market, where you could feel and touch the ordinary Thai way of life.

Approximate time spending: 2 hrs.

You may find a nice place for your dinner during your leisure trip.

After a walk at Night Market, other choices of optional routes are available with some scattering retail stores along. Also, nightlife area is just a short distance away.

Thai Mortar & Pestle

(in Thai called Krog & Saak)

Thai stone mortar and pestle (on the right) is made from carved granite. It's used to pound curry pastes and other dried spice ingredients such as coriander seeds, cumin seeds, cloves, and dried peppers.

The mortar on the left, Clay Mortar, is made from clay and the pestle at the bottom is made from wood. This kind of mortar and pestle is commonly used for pounding green papaya salad (Som Tum), fresh peppers, fresh garlic, and more.

Recipe

Thai Red Curry Paste

This recipe provided by

Nathalie from Buchabun cooking course

Makes enough for curry for 4

Preparation Time: 20 Minutes

- 1 tsp Coriander seeds
- 1 tbsp finely chopped dried red chili
- 1 tbsp finely chopped lemon grass
- 1 tbsp finely chopped ginger or galangal
- 1 tbsp finely chopped shallot
- 1 tbsp finely chopped garlic
- 1 tsp grated lime zest
- ½ tsp salt
- 5 cleaned coriander roots (optional)
- 1 tsp shrimp paste

Heating a frying pan over a medium heat and add the coriander seeds. Toast gently until they begin to smell fragrant, and then remove from the heat. Put the cooled seeds in to a large mortar and crush with the pestle.

Next, add the chili, lemon grass and ginger or galangal to the mortar, and pound to a paste. This will take several minutes. Add the shallot, garlic, lime zest and salt (and the coriander roots) and continue to pound to a paste. Then all these ingredients have formed a smooth mixture, add the shrimp paste and pound again until well mixed. The paste is now ready to use.

To make a green paste, substitute one sliced fresh green chili for the dried red one. You could also add a pinch of turmeric. A green paste is traditionally used in very hot curries.

Holy Basil

Thai name : Kra Prow

Often called hot basil because of its peppery taste, especially when very fresh, with a hint of mint and cloves. Since its exotic flavor becomes fully released with cooking, it is not eaten raw, but added in generous amounts to stir-fried dishes (Pad Kra Prow) and some spicy soups (Tom Yum). Holy basil is so-called because it is a sacred herb in India where it frequently is planted around Hindu shrines.

Sweet Basil

Thai name : Horapa

Thai or anise basil

Thai basil has lush, deep green leaves, purplish flower buds and stems and carries anise overtones to its sweet basil scent. It is added by the big handfuls in whole leaves, to green and red curries and spicy stir-fried dishes; sprigs of it regularly appear with other herbs on vegetable platters to be nibbled on with spicy salads and chilli dips. The flower buds are also edible, adding a wonderful floral bouquet.

Local Huai Hin Restaurant

These places are wellknown for Thais both locals and tourists. Most of them have run their businesses for a long time and their customers never tried of coming back again and again....

You can enjoy traditional Thai way of dining atmosphere, and experiment the real taste of Thai-Hua Hin dishes.

This hill is only 4 kms. south of Hua Hin, and can be reached by local minibus, the pickup car with green color (Rot Song Thaew) or, by continue a long relax walk from Hua Hin beach. There is a road leading to the top where a temple is situated. Many observation areas scatter around the hill, and from the view points, you will see Hua Hin city along with white sand beach as a bird eye view, which is one of a decent view of this town.

Many of monkeys also live up there, that's the reason why some people also call it "monkey hill". At the base, north side, of the hill, the Giant Golden Buddah Statue stands against the cliff, and this has been a symbolic of Kao Takiab for a long time. Around Takiab area, there are many of seafood restaurants where you can dine before or after your trip to the top of Kao Takiab.
